UA AU

About UA

The publication of choice for faculty, administrators, researchers and sr. leaders of Canada's universities

University Affairs is the bilingual magazine and website of choice for those working in Canadian higher education. Our readers – academics, graduate students and their university colleagues – are among the country's best educated, demanding editorial excellence with everything we publish. Our contributors include award-winning and emerging Canadian journalists as well as faculty members, university administrators and graduate students.

Our feature articles and news stories enlighten and entertain, our columns and opinion pieces spark debate, and our career advice section inspires and engages a community that represents Canada's intellectual heart. With stories on contentious and timely topics like fair access to higher education and the student mental health crisis, plus the most extensive academic job listings in the country, University Affairs reaches a vibrant academic community both within Canada and internationally.

Quick Facts

Powering the future!

The first of its kind in Saskatchewan, a microgrid at the University of Regina will soon help researchers and industry partners harness the power of local energy generation – thermal, hydro, and solar.

The microgrid will be a living lab for energy innovation and formation. Growing the clean energy sector in Saskatchewan, the U of R's microgrid will also be vital to Canada's goal of net-zero emissions by 2050.

It's happening here.
